Research/Scholarship

Clinical Fellowship (CF) Recalibration Study (began July 2017, project completed for dissemination in January 2020)

ASHA Certification Department, Council for Clinical Certification in Audiology and Speech (CFCC)

- Selected to participate as a subject matter expert (SME) in the field of Speech-Language Pathology in the 2017 Clinical Fellowship (CF) Recalibration Study at the ASHA National Office. The purpose of this revalidation study was to ensure that the CF assessment (a) accurately measures a Clinical Fellow's competency in the clinical skills needed for independent practice, and (b) continues to meet validity requirements.

Inter-professional Education Pilot Study (May – June 2011), published 2014

Co-Investigators: Michelle Suarez, PhD, OTR, Heather Koole, PhD, CCC-SLP

Western Michigan University Unified Clinics

- Created a collaborative clinical opportunity for SLP and OT graduate students in a preschool setting. Students participated in lectures and in-class discussions related to interdisciplinary work as well as co-treating clients serviced in the university clinic preschool language impairment program (PLIP).
- Results were compiled using journaling and rating scales to create a manuscript that was submitted for publication in a professional journal (Summer 2012)

Graduate Student Research Assistant (January – April 2004), published 2005

Avent-Glista Aphasia Caregiver Support Research Project, Western Michigan University

Principal Investigators: Jan Avent, Ph.D., CCC-SLP, California State University, Hayward
Sandra Glista, M.S., CCC-SLP, Western Michigan University

- Collected/analyzed data from participants in focus group sessions with spouses of individuals who have aphasia.
- Research project resulted in publication in the Aphasiology (2005) national professional journal.

Student Research Coordinator (September 2001 – December 2002)

Dialect Density in African American Preschoolers Research Project

Michigan State University/Southern University

Principal Investigators: Ida Stockman, Ph.D., CCC-SLP, Michigan State University
Barbara Guillory, Ph.D., CCC-SLP, Southern University, Baton Rouge

- Transcribed, analyzed, and coded preschool language samples collected to discover dialectical features of African American children in Michigan and Louisiana; coordinated the work of other student researchers.
- The findings of this research have resulted in the publication of numerous (approximately 8) research articles that have defined evidence-based practices to address the needs of Black preschoolers in peer-reviewed journals over an 11-year period (2003 – 2014).
